Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 8/1/2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 3, 13, 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Each of the independent claims 1, 11 and 21 positively recited a roller; therefore, the limitation in each of claims 3, 13, and 22 of the support assembly comprising "at least one roller" renders claims 3, 13, and 22 indefinite for failing to clearly define whether said at least one roller is the same or different from the roller recited in each of the above-listed independent claims. Claim 21, the preamble recites "[A] support assembly for use with a support structure for supporting at least one electronic component, comprising...". This language would lead the examiner to believe applicant intends to claim only the subcombination of a support assembly, the support structure and the at least one electronic component are only functionally recited. This present no problem as long as the body of the claim also refers to the support structure and electronic component functionally, such as “a supporting apparatus structured for attaching to the support structure” or “a supporting apparatus structured to be adapted for attaching to the support structure.” The problem arises when the support structure and/or the electronic component is positively recited within the body of the claim. The preamble indicates subcombination, while in the body of the claim in at least one instance there is a positive recital of structure indicating that the combination of a support assembly and a support structure is being claimed. The examiner cannot be sure if applicant's intent is to claim merely the support assembly or the support assembly in combination with a support structure. Applicant is required to clarify what the claim is intended to be drawn to and the claim be amended accordingly. For the purpose of this examination, the examiner is considering that the claims are drawn to the combination. Applicant's amendment to claims 1, 11 has obviated the 112(2) base on combination/subcombination raised in the Office action mailed on 5/2/2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

Art Unit: 3637

4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
6. Claims 1, 3, 11, 13, 21-23, 31, and 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USP 427,217 to Bancroft in view of USP 5,199,773 to Price, Jr. et al.

Bancroft discloses a furniture construction comprising all the elements recited in the above listed claims including: a housing defining an interior that is at least partially enclosed; means defining an angled opening in an upper portion of the housing; a support assembly including a platform 9 having an upstanding rear wall, at least one roller 13 mounted on the housing near the angled opening to enable the platform 9 to move angularly through the opening until the drawer pivots under its weight into a substantially horizontal position; a stop forming a part of the interior of the housing adjacent to the angled opening; and the platform 9 including a top portion 12. The different being that Bancroft fails to disclose a drawer having two upstanding sidewalls, instead the platform having only a bottom wall and an upstanding rear wall, and the method steps recited in claims 31 and 34.

However, Price, Jr. et al teaches the idea of providing a furniture construction with a housing defining an interior, and a support assembly comprising a drawer movable between a first position that is generally horizontal and a second position that is at a downwardly inclined angle at least partially within the interior of the housing; wherein the drawer facilitates moving of article placed thereon between the first and second positions. In view of the teaching of Price, Jr. et al, it would have been obvious to modify the structure of Bancroft by replacing the platform 9 with a drawer having two upstanding sidewalls as well as an upstanding rear wall in order to facilitate moving of article placed thereon between the first and second position, as taught by Price, Jr. et al, since both teach alternate conventional structure of a furniture construction with a housing, used for same intended purpose of supporting article thereon, thereby providing structure as claimed. In regard to the method claims 31, and 34, Bancroft, as modified, discloses all the structural limitations recited in said claims; therefore, it would have been obvious and well within the level of one skill in the art to perform the method steps recited in said claims.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
